

'To Be Heard' Call for Artists

The June 2018 show at the Old Court House Arts Center will be curated by Joe & Kathleen Isacson, local artists who have curated more than 20 shows, 5 of them with the art center. For more info on them, current and past shows, and to apply to 'To Be Heard', please visit www.xculturearts.com

To Be Heard is a national fine art exhibition focused on artwork that is controversial itself or explores controversial subject matter and the power artists have to highlight issues and social causes. Artwork that takes a strong moral stance can depict both the intensely personal experience or reflect society at large. If your work evokes strong opinions from people, makes them feel like they have to choose sides on a subject or challenges the viewer to think about a social issue in a new way, this show is for you. The show is open to all media.

Important Dates:

Early Submission Deadline ($20 fee): 3/13/18

Final Submission Deadline ($26 fee): 4/1/18

Notice of Acceptance: 4/20/18. There is an additional $30 hanging fee for accepted artists.

Delivery Dates for Artwork: 5/17-5/20

Opening Reception: 6/2/18

Artwork Pickup/show Ends: 6/30/18

To apply to the show, click here.